

Getting SAT Scores

<https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/scores/getting-scores>

If you registered for the SAT online or you registered by mail and set up a College Board account, you'll get an email telling you how to sign into your online score report when scores are ready.

New Score Release Policies

We're making changes to help you get scores and send them to colleges faster than before. Here's what you need to know about scores from the 2017-18 weekend administrations:

- October, November, December, March, and May scores from the Evidence-Based Reading and Writing and Math sections will be released about two weeks after test day. You'll receive an email when those multiple-choice scores are ready. We'll send your scores to colleges within 10 days after they're available to you.
- If you take the SAT with Essay, you'll get your SAT Essay scores about five days after receiving your multiple-choice scores. We'll send score reports to colleges once all your scores are ready.
- If you request a paper score report, we'll send it once all your scores are ready (including your SAT Essay scores if you take the essay).
- August and June scores may take longer—up to six weeks for all scores.

Paper Score Reports

Students who register online and wish to receive a paper score report by mail in addition to the online score report must request it when they register.

Students who register by mail and who don't have active College Board online accounts will receive paper score reports. They can also get their SAT scores by calling customer service, but there's an additional fee.

Scores by Phone

You can get SAT scores by phone starting on the day they're released, but there's an extra fee.

Who Else Sees Your Scores

If you chose score recipients before scores were released, those colleges and scholarship programs will get your score report shortly after you do. Your high school, district, and state will be able to see your scores online too.

If Your Scores Aren't Online Yet

Most scores are available within the same score release window, but some might not be. If you fall within this group, you'll get a message telling you to check back—usually about a week later.

Some reasons scores may be delayed:

- You took a makeup test later than the actual test day.
- Your answer sheet was received late.
- Your answer sheet is missing information.
- Your answer sheet information is inconsistent with your registration information.
- An irregularity was reported at your test site.

We understand it can be frustrating if you don't see your scores when you're expecting them, and we appreciate your patience. If your scores aren't delayed, you can troubleshoot missing scores.
